Island residents want fire boat purchased

The municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden is seeking provincial support to purchase a boat for the municipal fire department.

Council decided on the action following a discussion with fire chief William 'Deac' Jackson and Tom Douglas, a member of the Gull Lake Cottagers' Association.

Gull Lake is within the region served by the Minden Fire Department under an agreement with the township of Lutterworth. Mr. Douglas told council there are in excess of 100 cottages in Lutterworth Township and a further 10-15 cottages within the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden without road access.

In the event of a fire in one of these cottages, firefighters and fire-fighting equipment must be transported by boat, Mr. Douglas said. In one instance, he said eight trips across the water were required to fight a fire on an island on Gull Lake.

Noting that fortunately, neighbours were able to provide boats to transport the firefighters, he argued the department should not have to "depend on happenstance" to reach the scene of a blaze.

While the fire department can use a tanker to fight fires in many rural areas of the municipality, a fireboat is needed to provide fire protection for many residents, he said.

Fire chief Jackson told council that in the past twenty-five years, a boat was needed on only three occasions to fight fires on Twelve Mile Lake and Gull Lake. He estimated a boat, motor and trailer would cost from $3000 to $4000 and questioned the necessity of purchasing the boat that may see little use and which would occupy needed storage space in the fire hall.

A meeting has been held between representatives of the Gull Lake Cottagers' Association, the Minden Fire Department and Lutterworth Council. Jackson said, adding that Lutterworth Council turned down a request by the association to purchase a boat.

Reeve Lyle McKnight responded to the request by noting while he could sympathize with the association members, the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden should not be responsible for providing a boat; instead it should be the responsibility of the Township of Lutterworth.

Councillor Gary Kenney argued that while there have been only three occasions in the past when a boat was needed, council should consider the position of owners of water access properties and the value of spending $3000.

Like the RCMP, the "Furnace Falls Ambulance Service" always gets its man—even if he the victim is less than willing. This policy was amply demonstrated during the Kinmount Fall Fair Parade Saturday. The humorous float was just one of many taking part in the annual festivities.

The children's playground adjacent to the municipal building underwent a long overdue renovation recently. Members of the Minden Katimavik crew assisted in the installation of new equipment and the refurbishing of the existing apparatus. Part of the crew who assisted in the work include, from the left, front Loretta Schriener, Isabelle Simard and Mark Wallace. Standing behind are John Brant and Scott Hutchinson.

Fairground building problem unresolved

After being in place for less than a month, it appears a building on the Minden Fairgrounds will once again, be dismantled and moved to another location.

The mini-fair building was originally erected by the municipality near the firehall and was used by vendors at the Haliburton County Farmers' Market. The structure was later moved to a site adjacent to the Minden Library-Cultural Centre and the County Town Museum where it became the subject of a disagreement between the Museum Committee and the Agnes Jamieson Gallery Board.

Board members wanted to convert the structure to a permanent building to provide display and storage space for the gallery, but the Museum Committee had plans to erect a pioneer log structure on the site.

In mid-August the building was dismantled again and moved to a site near the old curling club on the Minden fairgrounds. Before the building was erected, several neighbours complained to the municipality was an eyesore and the erection of the building was temporarily halted.

Anson, Hindon and Minden council agreed to allow the Minden Agricultural Society to raise the building in time for the Haliburton County Fair with the understanding that discussions would be held later to decide on a more permanent site.

A delegation of society members attended the meeting of council on Thursday with a request that the mini-fair building be left where it stands. President Susan Stephens told council the Society had been given the building by the municipality and had not even begun to erect the structure on a site approved by council when the complaints were made.

She suggested that if the society could continue with plans to install the building on a concrete pad and paint the roof to match other existing structures on the fairgrounds, residents might not find the building so offensive. Councillor Dave Stevens agreed, noting, "It seems to me if the building was squared up and painted, it would not be an eyesore."

President Stephens noted the building was used for children's activities during the fair and that the Haliburton County Farmers' Association has requested future use of the building. She described the structure as being self-contained, safe for children as well as animals and in a convenient location. "We don't have a lot of space to put buildings," she said, adding "We can't put animals close to an area where food is being served."

Past-president Wayne Cox noted space on the fairgrounds is limited due to other activities such as the ice races, because a large area is needed for the ice track and parking.

Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas told the delegation he could not approve a permanent structure on the present site close to the Bobcaygeon Road because of possible future development.

Councillor Gary Kenney elaborated, explaining a future council might decide to develop the land.

This prompted President Stephens to ask, "Wasn't this land given in perpetuity to the Agricultural Society?"

Kenney responded, "No council can make that decision," adding that a later

Minden, Nebraska, U.S.A.

Summer is a busy time in Minden, Nebraska. Both working hours and recreation hours are crowded with activities as everyone takes advantage of the warm weather.

This summer has been more enjoyable than some because it has not been so terribly hot. A meteorologist with the Omaha Weather Service recently stated, "We've been spared those huge extremes from normal that can make Nebraska so interesting." He was referring to last winter's mild temperatures as well as this summer.

The farmers have had time off from irrigating because of some heavy rains during July. The lawns and fields are as green as early spring as we approach the end of August and surely that makes everyone happy except those who are very tired of mowing grass.

The weekend after our 4th of July celebration, Minden was host to the national Stinson fly-in for the ninth consecutive year. It is always a pleasure to see the rows of beautifully restored Stinson planes lined up at Pioneer Village field. The group has made arrangements to return to Minden next July, marking their tenth anniversary here.

The Minden Community Theatre put on a variety show called, "A Mid Summer Night's Revue" in the newly restored bandshell in the city park. The bandshell had fallen into disrepair over the years until a group of local residents volunteered to restore it with the cooperation of the city crew.

The controversy continues about the Minden swimming pool and the swimming pool continues to leak. The level of the pool drops nearly 4 inches every 24 hours and the addition of more water every day causes it to remain quite cool. In a summer with less than our normal abundance of sunshine, this can pose a unique problem. The cost of a new pool is astronomical but the estimated cost of repair to the old one is also high so the outcome is still pending before the city council.

There has been a fund raising campaign to purchase and remodel a building on the square into a Minden Community Center. The area senior citizens have spear-headed the drive since they will use the new center to hold their daily noon dinners and programs. According to latest reports, the drive has been successful and a grand opening is planned for this fall for the Community Center.

American Legion-sponsored baseball teams helped make up for the lack of high school sports during the summer months.

The County Fair was another annual summer activity. There was the inevitable rain storm one night but that helped to settle the dust and make future days of the fair more enjoyable. One of the fun-events was a "catch the muddy pig" contest which attracted many young fellows who have wanted a good excuse to come home muddy.

Entertainment one evening was provided by the famous Blackwood Singers who sang a lot of favourite gospel tunes to an appreciative audience.

It has been a feature of every county fair for 30 years to present plaques to those farm families whose land has been owned by the same family for 100 years. There have been two to five area families win this award each year in our county, but this year there were 13. This was not surprising since many of the surrounding towns are celebrating their centennials this year and next.

The Chamber of Commerce has sponsored various activities on the square on Thursday evenings when the stores are open until 9:00 p.m. There was a "big wheel" race for the little tots, a frisbee throwing contest, water balloon contest, and a shopping cart race.

Runners and joggers were not forgotten. The Danish Fun Run took place one Saturday morning after a heavy rain and attracted a lot of participants, especially since the weather was cooler. A nice crowd cheered them on from the starting point on the town square.

Three drivers of antique curved dash oldsmobiles stopped in Minden on their cross-country drive, creating interest in their beautifully restored vehicles.

The highlight of the summer was the appearance of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) band. When the band director thanked the people of Minden for providing such a nice bandshell in which to perform, it must have been a proud moment for those who had worked to restore it. It was wonderful to see such a large crowd of people in Bandshell Park, some having picnic suppers, children playing on the swings and a lovely warm summer evening. After the concert the Chamber of Commerce provided free cold drinks and popcorn on the court house lawn while the Pioneer Promanaders entertained by square dancing in the street.

It has been a summer of class reunions, family reunions, county fairs, concerts in the park and picnics. So, that's a quick run-down of this summer in Minden, Nebraska. Was it extremely "heartland America"; was it small-townish and even a bit corny? You bet it was ... and it was beautiful!

Building dispute

council could change the agreement.

Kenney added he supported the request by the agricultural society arguing the building, "Would not bind council" in the same way that a twelve storey structure would." When reminded by the deputy reeve that complaints have been made concerning the building, Kenney pointed out that it is the policy of council to react only to written complaints.

He suggested a meeting between the property committee and representatives of the agricultural society in order to discuss the future site of the building and any written complaints that might be received.

The meeting was held on Friday at the fairgrounds, but, according to Councillor Dave Stevens, a member of the committee, an agreement was not reached during the meeting.

Grant approved

A community planning grant of $12,200 has been awarded to the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden, John Eakins, Minister of Tourism and Recreation, announced last week.

Speaking on behalf of Municipal Affairs Minister Bernard Grandmaitre, Mr. Eakins said the grant will be used by the Townships to prepare a new comprehensive zoning bylaw.

Community planning grants are designed to encourage municipalities to resolve land use planning issues to reflect municipal and economic priorities.

The grants may also be used for specific studies to develop community improvement policies; to determine the feasibility of using data processing technology in the local planning process; and to assist in implementing the Planning Act.

He suggested approaching the provincial government to determine if programs are available to provide support funds for the purchase of an emergency watercraft.

Following a comment by councillor Pat Burk that Lutterworth council should be involved in any further action, council supported Kenney's motion calling for the review of expenditures in purchasing an emergency craft once possible provincial assistance has been determined.

Comments received during the meeting will be taken into consideration during the drafting of provisions for the bylaw.

Police probe break-ins

Police are investigating a series of break-ins in the Kennisis Lake area which netted intruders a large quantity of cottage and recreation goods. Among the stolen merchandise was a 15 h.p. outboard motor which was chained to a boat at the Red Pine dam; a stereo from a vehicle parked at the dam; a chainsaw and pile of cut and split wood; $1000 worth of fishing gear and other sporting goods removed from a cottage after a sliding window was forced open; sporting goods and a tape player taken from a moored boat; as well as a variety of other household articles.

The OPP investigation is continuing.

Beer taken

A sliding window was forced open at the Stanhope Firefighters' Hall, sometime during the night of August 28, giving intruders access to the building and $200 worth of beer and liquor. The beverage was removed from the premises.

Constable Al Bibby is the investigating officer.

Driver charged

A charge of making an unsafe turn has been laid following an accident August 27 at the intersection of Highway and the South Lake Road. Four individuals involved in the mishap were treated for minor injuries at the Minden Hospital.

According to the police, a truck being driven by David Burke, 71 of Snowdon Township was travelling south when his vehicle was in collision with a north-bound car driven by Lorna Shaw, 43, also of Snowdon township. Passengers in the Shaw car were 14 year old Aaron Davis and 13 year old Lee Davis, also of Snowdon Township.

Burke was charged following the incident.

The matter is being investigated by Constable Barry Connelly.

Aircraft lights

Police are investigating the theft of aircraft warning lights from the Dorset observation tower. According to the authorities, this is the third time this summer the red warning fixtures have been removed. The lights and housings are valued at $200.

Community Services Officer Gary Chapman noted, "This type of theft, similar to removing a stop sign at an intersection, can result in serious penalties for the person found responsible for the act."

A helping hand

While we can appreciate the concern expressed by island property owners in Gull Lake regarding fire protection services we also feel those directly involved must do more than just approach municipal councils with a costly request. We refer to an appeal made to Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council for the addition of a boat to the community's fire equipment to facilitate transportation to emergencies on an island.

The basis of the request is, of course, sensible. Property on islands, if threatened, would require special provisions if emergency services are to be of any value whatsoever. Hoping that a private flotilla will be available at the time of the crisis is not beyond reason, but the circumstances will always arise when privately owned boats just aren't there when required.

Since the property owners chose to invest in island or shoreline property which only can be reached by boat, they have accepted, to a certain degree, the potential risk the isolation creates. Enjoying the special ambience that comes with an island retreat should be tempered with a reality that one is that much further removed from the services those on the mainland take for granted.

That is why we feel, if island property owners are sincere in their desire for the improved fire protection a motor boat would provide, they should be willing to do more than just petition council for the expenditure. We suggest if they had made their approach with a substantial monetary contribution (remembering that Gull Lake is not the only body of water with islands or land-locked property served by the Minden brigade) they may have found the council more willing to listen to their request.

Fair's fair

Fairgrounds were never known for the beauty of their architectural achievements. They are, however, vital and important places for the communities they serve, even if only for a brief period of time each year. The remainder of the year the area provides those adjacent with a quiet buffer and open space.

It is therefore dismaying to see the lack of support this valuable institution receives from some members of the municipal council.

Federal tornado help

- by Bill Scott, MP -

On August 21, the Hon. John Wise announced details of a $5 million plan to help farmers who suffered losses from the May 31, 1985 tornadoes in central Ontario.

The Central Ontario Farm Storm-Damage Assistance Plan will supplement insurance payments and payments made by the Central Ontario Disaster Relief Fund. This is being done in recognition that existing insurance payments and the disaster relief fund will not fully cover the damage on the farms affected.

This plan has two components. The first is an interest compensation program to help farmers meet immediate cash-flow requirements. Eligible farmers may get a contribution of up to one hundred per cent of the interest accruing from June 1, 1985 to May 31, 1986 on those capital loans of record directly related to the farm unit on May 31, 1985. The payment will be the lesser of the interest payable on those capital loans or the calculated reduction in net farm income. Crop damage that could have been insured under the federal - provincial Crop Insurance Program will not be included in the calculation of anticipated net farm income.

The second part of the program will provide up to 35 per cent of eligible re-establishment costs for the farm unit. Eligible costs are those over and above the evaluation of loss which the Central Ontario Disaster Relief Committee used as a basis for calculating its payments.

To qualify for assistance under this new program a farmer must have owned and managed the farm on May

Editor:

On August 24th, I attended the formal public meeting, held by the Council of the Corporation of Stanhope, "to consider the enactment of By-law no. 85-7, a new Comprehensive Zoning By-law."

Council can be commended for the time and effort they have spent on producing the new Zoning By-law, which is, for the most part, a useful and informative document.

However, as a ratepayer and cottager on Halls Lake, I am concerned with Council's attitude re. Item 4.10.8.4, which would permit a trailer camp to be set up on the Offen property at Halls Lake.

On this issue it seemed that, at least some of the Council members, did not come to "consider" the enactment of this section of the By-law, but had already made up their minds to enact it. They appeared to have decided in favour of Dr Offen's plans for a trailer camp, with little consideration for those who would be most affected by it.

Cottagers were given short notice of Dr. Offen's renewed proposal. Their many letters of objection were apparently given little weight, by Council. Objections from the floor, during the meeting seemed to be met with less than an open mind by Council members.

Cottagers have, for years, paid taxes for schools which they do not use, and for roads they normally use, only 4 months of the year. Dr. Offen may leave at any time. Cottagers are here to stay. They deserve the same consideration by Council, that Dr. Offen has had.

- by Ian Sainsbury -

Once Upon A Time Frame

A very tweedy psychologist in those United States has sounded the alarm warning of the latest pernicious threat to the well-being of our little ones - fairy tales.

This underemployed expert on the vulnerable minds and spirits of the Fisher Price set maintains that the violent elements traditional to Grimm's fairy tales and other like-minded classics of children's literature can irreparably wound the tender pre-school subconscious. Never mind the elegantly crafted plot or the fine eccentricity of language and character, our kids suffer a high risk factor when exposed to this mode of story line.

Okay.

I suggest the following re-writes as examples of what adults, concerned about proper parenting, can present to their youngsters at bedtime.

The Princess & The Pea: There once was a Princess who could not sleep because there was a pea under her mattress. Though she piled mattress upon mattress, she still felt the pea. So she filed a class action suit against the mattress industry for pain and suffering, damages, plus costs. She did not forget to name the pea growers as co-defendants.

Sleeping Beauty: Sleeping Beauty had slept for eons. Not because of the spell of a wicked witch but because she was highly fatigued. A prince discovered her, and to wake her kissed her lips. On Monday, she named him in a complaint to the Human Rights Commission claiming sexual harassment.

Hansel & Gretel: Hansel and Gretel wandered into the forest where they came upon a woodcutter's cottage made of cakes and sweets. Lo! The cottage had been commandeered by a wicked witch who would bake lost children in her oven. She offered to let Hansel and Gretel taste the house. However, these kids were thoroughly street proofed and blew the whistle on her. The witch was arrested, the Ministry of Consumer Affairs ordered the candy replaced with Fiberglas insulation, and the woodcutter was made a block parent.

579 bottles of beer on the wall.....

"Brewed expressly for you with the personal approval of Billy Carter."

"I had this beer brewed just for me," the inscription on the beer can reads, "I think it's the best I've ever tasted, and I've tasted alot... I think you'll like it too." The endorsement of Billy Carter, brother of the former president of the United States, and the fact Billy Beer was a "limited edition" makes that can of beer the most prized possession of fifteen year old Jamie Bruce of Fort Irwin.

Jamie is what is known in collector's circles as a brewianist. A brewianist is someone who collects anything that has to do with the brewing industry and beer. While Jamie has limited his collecting to mainly bottles and cans, his interest does spill over into other beer related paraphernalia.

His collection of beer bottles and cans, now approaching the 600 mark, line the walls and shelves of his bedroom. He has been collecting the containers since the summer of 1981 and feels he has moved beyond being just a beginner in the realm of beer can and bottle collectors.

He assists his family in the operation of a marina and general store in the community of Fort Irwin, northeast of Haliburton. It was during the summer of 1981, when he was delivering a boat to an owner, that his interest in collecting beer containers began. As he recalls, when he delivered the boat, he saw an old beer can, picked it up and, well things just started to mushroom from there.

At first he was content to collect only Canadian brands, they were most readily available. However, that Christmas, his brother gave him a six pack of foreign brands and his interest in the hobby

Jamie Bruce with some of the prizes from his collection of beer bottles and cans. From the left: Dow Bock Beer, an old Canadian specialty brew; Molson Golden with the word 'ALE' on the label; the squat barrel-shaped bottle of Heidelberg Beer; a 25 ounce can of Foster's Lager from Australia; San Miguel beer in the short can from an Iberian Airlines flight; Budweiser beer in an eight ounce can; McEwan's Export from Scotland; a 275 ml can of Carlsberg from Denmark; Harley Davidson beer, named after the motorcycle manufacturer, only 10,000 cases were produced to commemorate the 1985 Daytona races; Pabst Blue Ribbon from the United States, a seven ounce can; Colt 45 Malt Liquor brewed by National Brewers, another company has since taken over the product line; Team of the Decade Beer for the Pittsburgh Steelers, 1980; Iron City beer features a photo of the 1979 world series Pittsburgh Pirates; beer specially packaged for the 1982 World's Fair; Molson Canadian as bottled for export to the United States; 1984 Kentucky Derby beer; Mickey's bog mouth, a bottle of malt liquor designed to open wide for one gulp consumption; in Jamie's right hand, Billy Beer, named for the former U.S. president's brother; and in his left hand, the oldest can in his collection, Moosehead Pale Ale.

When he is not working at the marina, Jamie often spends his time searching for cast-offs. Since he started to take his hobby seriously, he has been able to keep up with all the latest Canadian brands and changes. However, when looking for pre-1981 containers, Jamie will visit one of the local garbage disposal sites. He ignores the new areas and heads for the section which has been covered over for at least five years. With some careful digging and a lot of luck, he can often unearth a beer can or bottle that is not part of his collection. Abandoned campsites are also fruitful searching areas.

Of course, when the family travels, Jamie keeps his eye out for unusual containers. Visits to the United States are particularly productive. He notes there are more local breweries there and the companies are more responsive to local markets. To prove his point he displays a selection of beer cans bearing imprints to mark the championship victory of a local sports club or special event. He has beer cans lauding the exploits of the 1980 Pittsburgh Steelers football club, the 1979 Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club, the 1982 World's Fair and the 1984 Kentucky Derby.

While he notes the number of local breweries in the United States has decreased over the years, the situation is not like Canada where the three major breweries, Labatt's, Carling-O'Keefe and Molson, control a lion's share of the beer market. This concentration has limited the variety in Jamie's Canadian collection until recently. Last year the breweries decided to start using bottles which were unique to particular brands. As they moved away from the short, brown, stubby bottles, his collection grew by leaps and bounds.

Subtle changes

Examining the bottle and can-lined shelves, one appears to discern some duplications. Not so, Jamie interjects. A closer inspection of the labels reveals subtle differences that mark changes in the brewery's approach or policy regarding a particular product. The change to metric measurement of course produced a flood of new entries for his shelves, others are less obvious, such as the dropping of the word "ALE" from the Molson Golden label. Jamie has a pre-1977 bottle on which the word appears and a second bottle showing just "Molson Golden".

snapshot of can development.

About 40% of Jamie's collection is represented by Canadian produced beers, while 30% are from the United States. The remainder comes from overseas including England, Scotland, Denmark, Australia, China and other countries. Many of the customers of the marina at Fort Irwin are aware of his hobby and will bring him containers when they travel abroad. Friends at school and elsewhere have also helped with his collecting. He noted that a speech he gave at high school on his

Beer can tops tell industry's history

While beer bottles are more numerous, the labels on the glass containers often deteriorate rapidly, particularly if the bottle is left outdoors. As well, bottle labels can be reproduced or counterfeited.

Beer cans, on the other hand, have an authenticity that is hard to dispute. The label is imprinted onto the can, and therefore represents a time that is easier to pinpoint. The construction of cans also offer a method of identifying the era. The method of opening the cans, for example, from the early all steel cans which required a can opener, to the present key-punch method, also provide a chronological interesting hobby, netted him seven new samples for his collection.

(The cans or bottles are of more value if they are full, or in the case of cans, if they are opened from the bottom with a can opener.)

Through magazines, he is aware of a collector who has some 10,000 containers. While he still has some distance to go before approaching that number, Jamie is still as keen as ever. He wants to contact other collectors, to trade or sell duplicates and to just talk about the hobby.

In the meantime, however, Jamie's collection of beer bottles and cans will continue to grow.

It's wall to wall beer cans and bottles at Jamie Bruce's home in Fort Irwin.

Peterborough lands the games

Victoria Haliburton MPP, John Eakins, minister for tourism and recreation, announced at a press conference Tuesday (September 3) that Peterborough will host the 1986 Ontario Summer Games. The games have been scheduled for July 17 - 20, 1986.

At a reception held at the Peterborough Holiday Inn to announce the games, Mr. Eakins commented, "I am pleased that my ministry and the City of Peterborough are supporting this important opportunity for amateur athletic development. The games encourage a wider participation in all sports and improve the athletes' ability to compete in national and international events."

More than 2,300 athletes, coaches and managers will participate in 16 sports to declare provincial champions in their age group for 1986. The Ministry of Tourism and Recreation is contributing $443,280 toward the $513,000 cost of staging the Games. The balance of the funds will be raised by the Peterborough Games Committee from corporate sponsorship and fundraising. Of the total provincial contribution, up to $15,000 will assist in upgrading the Trent University track and field facility.

The first Ontario Summer Games, held in 1970, were created by the provincial government to fill the need for a major multi-sport competition for Ontario athletes. The last Summer Games competition was in 1983 at Sudbury.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I will be a candidate for the position of Reeve in Anson, Hindon, Minden townships for the term of office 1986-88.

A Reeve is responsible for an agenda, for a direction and vigorous leadership over three years that will allow Council to concentrate decisively on improving municipal services promoting balanced and progressive development that keeps pace with the neighbouring municipalities while maintaining the quality of our natural surroundings.

The Reeve is the key representative of our Municipality's financial contributions toward and negotiated sharing of County-level policies and programs.

I have the qualifications, energy and community commitment necessary to act as Reeve.

I intend to specifically address the issues I feel are important for us all to consider in a weekly series of comments beginning September 11 in the Minden Times.

I realize as an incumbent councillor this announcement begins a campaign that coincides with ongoing Council business.

Nevertheless, I feel the traditional opportunity to speak for a few minutes at one all-candidates meeting is not sufficient attention to policies and actions that will affect millions of tax dollars thousands of volunteer hours hundreds of individual petitions and dozens of family concerns entrusted to your Reeve and Council over the next three years.

I look forward to every opportunity to discuss your priorities privately or openly with other candidates whenever that may be arranged.

Good luck to us all.

New director for centre

The Haliburton Hospitality Training Centre has a new director.

Dawn Windover took over the position last month and is currently preparing for the September 23 opening of classes. She replaces Rebecca Parkes who left after three years in the post.

Dawn will be actively involved in the classes which take place at the centre. As she explained last week, she will be a life skills coach helping those who take the course realise their full potential. Dawn has been involved with similar work in the past, teaching basic job readiness training at Fanshawe College in London and working as a job placement officer for the Canadian Association for the Deaf. She has also worked with disadvantaged youth in London, Ontario.

The training centre, located in Haliburton Village, provides a program for individuals interested in tourism related work. The training includes bartender, housekeepers, waiters and waitresses, and chef's assistants, among others. The students, who are chosen from the ranks of the unemployed, obtain a basic understanding of the importance of tourism in the local and provincial economies, the importance of the individual in ensuring tourist satisfaction, as well as the specific skills related to the various jobs.

"There are three components in the 18 week

program," Dawn pointed out. "Life skills, technical skills and job placement."

She noted that each is an important element in the training program, but had particular praise for the support offered by local businesses involved in the tourist industry for the placement sector. She noted the students spend four weeks of their 18 week term at a local business learning the job first-hand. "This experience is very important for the student and often provides employment opportunities once the course has been completed," she added.

Looking back over the history of the centre, Dawn is pleased with the record the centre has developed. Each class has attained a 75 - 80% placement success rate, she noted, with 65% of those directly related to tourism. The centre keeps track of graduates for two years to provide an assessment of their students' success.

She noted there are 12 to 14 places available for students in the program which begins September 23. The closing date for applications is September 6. Those interested in taking part in the course should contact Dawn at 457-2313 for more information.

Water levels report

Again in the week ending August 26, 1985, the water levels of the Haliburton area lakes followed the 10-year average line to reach 63.3 percent by that date. Gull River and Burnt River tributary flows continued only slightly above their minimums throughout this time since sufficient rain was occurring to keep the Kawartha Lakes up without reservoir water.

Additional rain since the 26th has pushed these lakes to a surplus situation, and the Otonabee River flow has had to be increased. The month of August in Peterborough has now become the wettest since 1977 and the effects are quite widespread. Scugog Lake which declined in late July has returned to early summer levels and Lake Simcoe - Couchiching which had been down below the rule curve in early August has rebounded to several centimeters above it now.

Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey officiated at the opening of the new Shawn Hagerman Financial Planning office in Haliburton. Past president of Mutual Life of Canada J.H. Panabaker, right, was on hand to assist with the ribbon cutting ceremonies. Shawn Hagerman, centre, welcomed visitors throughout the day.

The chairman of the board of directors for Mutual Life Canada, J.H. Panabaker of Kitchener, was in attendance Wednesday as the new office of the Shawn Hagerman Financial Planning Services in Haliburton Village was officially opened. Mr. Panabaker assisted Shawn and Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey in the ribbon cutting ceremony.

The opening marked a significant milestone in the development of the business created by Mr. Hagerman and, in a way, also signified the new direction Mutual Life and other insurance companies are taking. Once known strictly as a life insurer, Mutual Life of Canada has expanded its services to include financial planning for its clients, including advice, investment opportunities and facilitating the purchase of various investment certificates.

While Mutual Life as a corporate body has recently moved in this new direction, Mr. Hagerman has been offering his services as a financial planner for more than a year.

The opening of the office in the Bishop Building at the corner of Maple and Highlands Streets, marks an important point in the development of Mr. Hagerman's business. It was just nine years ago that he started serving the area as a Mutual Life agent. At that time there was not a Mutual time there was no resident Mutual Life representative serving the county. Through perseverance and hard work, he expanded his business achieving his Chartered Life Underwriter status and being admitted into the prestigious Million Dollar Round Table, a recognition within the industry of sales achievement and high professional standards. He has also been a field supervisor for Mutual Life recruiting and training new representatives for the company. Since opening his own office, he has introduced four other individuals to the business. In the past few years he has obtained his licence from the Ontario Securities Commission.

While life insurance sales still form an important part of his annual business, the financial planning aspects have taken on greater importance. With increased emphasis on helping the customer in all aspects of his financial needs, came the need for increased visibility and accessibility. The opening of the new office last week is an answer to those two requirements.

Jeff wins ATV cup

Jeff Howe of Minden captured the Highlands Cup on Saturday after placing first in the 250 Stock class in the final meet of the 1985 Highlands Cup ATV Challenge Series.

Jeff was tied for second place overall with Ted Baker of Scarborough after finishing first in his class on June 29 and second in a race on August 3.

Baker placed second overall in the three races running in the 200-225 Suspended Stock Class. Although Howe and Baker both amassed 59 points, the cup was awarded to Howe because he was racing in a more competitive class.

Allan Bruce of Douglas, the 1984 Highlands Cup Winner, placed third overall. Bruce led the standings before the race on Saturday winning two races in the 125-200, Modified class but following a spill on Saturday, he finished behind two other riders to drop to third overall.

While a number of the drivers competed in more, than one class, they were judged on the basis of their performance in a single class. The drivers were required to chose one class prior to the first race in June and points they amassed in that class over the three race series, determined their overall standings.

While Mike Yurko of Oshawa had the best overall performance, winning three races in the 350 Stock Class, he had not signed a form declaring his choice and consequently finished out of the running.

Steven Stewart of Minden finished the series as the top driver in the Open Modified Class, the fastest and most demanding of the events, but finished out of the running in the overall championship due to a mechanical failure in his chosen class, 250 modified in the second race of the season.

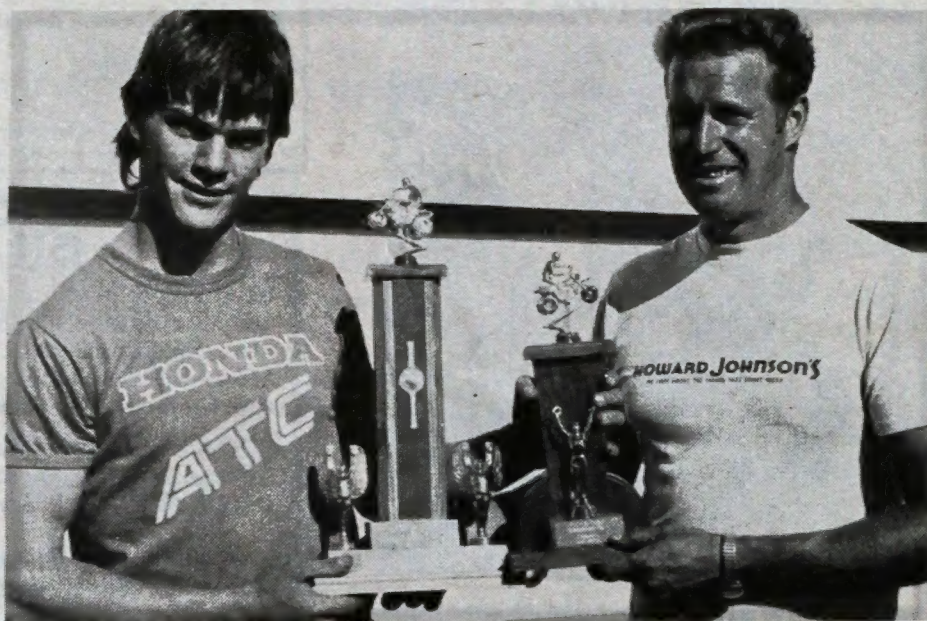

The overall results in the series listing winners in the order they finished in each class, are as follows:

250 Stock: Jeff Howe 59 points. Allan Bruce 58 points. Shawn Larue 34

Meeting to consider Brady Lake ramp

A meeting will be held on the Thanksgiving weekend between representatives of the Brady Lake Cottager's Association and members of Anson, Hindon and Minden council to decide on a location of a boat launching ramp on Brady Lake.

Currently there are two ramps servicing Brady Lake; one established by the Ministry of Natural Resources and a second ramp maintained by the municipality.

The municipal ramp, located adjacent to the Brady Lake Road on the south shore of the lake, has come under frequent criticism from adjacent property owners. These complaints were reiterated by representatives of the cottager's association at the regular meeting of council on Thursday, August 29.

Mr. B. Bonvanie told council he and other cottagers want the municipal boat ramp closed to the public because of excess noise and traffic and inadequate parking.

He argued there was no need for two boat ramps on the lake, noting that many larger lakes in the county are served only by one ramp. He added that in 1978 the municipal council decided there was no need for two ramps to service Brady Lake. His comments were supported by Mr. Veenstra, who stated the municipal ramp was situated too close to cottages on the south shore and should be eliminated.

The second existing ramp on the north shore of the lake is situated in an open space allowing boaters to use the access point without disturbing neighbouring residents, he said.

Reeve Lyle McKnight informed the delegation that the Planning Advisory Committee and the Community Services Coordinator, Brian Sisson, have inspected the two existing sites and a possible site on the concession road allowance, and had recommended the existing site be retained.

The ramp established by the MNR is situated on Crown land rather than municipal property he noted and has inadequate parking space because of the site's proximity to the lake.

He added the site is situated in an open area close to a cottage whereas the cottages adjacent to the municipal ramp are located in a well-treed area some distance from the ramp. While a ramp could be built on the concession allowance, an access road would have to be constructed at an estimated cost of $100,000, an expense he described as being prohibitive.

In response to the criticism that there is inadequate parking at the existing municipal ramp, Deputy Reeve Ed Pergolas noted the site could be cleared to create more parking spaces. Councillor Gary Kenney suggested that the third site should not be ruled out, noting that although road construction would be necessary the site was more remote than the existing ramps.

He said also the boundaries of the concession allowance have not yet been determined and that council should await a report on those boundaries before making a final decision.

Deputy Reeve Pergolas responded to the suggestion by stating that while the site is remote at present, it may not be in the future, after further lakeshore development.

Mr. Veenstra replied that at least people will know that they are purchasing property near a public boat ramp.

Both the members of the council and the representatives of the cottager's association agreed on the necessity of resolving the issue and decided to hold a meeting during the weekend of October 12 on Brady Lake to discuss the problem.

If that was summer, we've had it. Really, August was not too bad weather wise, quite a few nice warm days but some pretty cool ones as well. The average temperature 16.6 C was 2.4 degrees cooler than last August, and there was three times as much rain as last August. Heavy rain on August 15, 18 and 29 helped to raise the rainfall quite a bit above average.

Numbering system considered

Council passed two resolutions concerning emergency numbering systems on area lakefront properties.

Members agreed unanimously to contact cottagers' associations in the municipality, recommending lake front properties be assigned numbers to assist the Ontario Provincial Police, the Minden Fire Department, Ambulance Service and other municipal departments.

Under the system, individual properties would be assigned a number which would be noted on detailed maps of area lakes. Police officers and fire-fighters could consult the maps to pinpoint the location thus ensuring a quick response in the event of an emergency.

In a split vote, council also agreed to meet with cottagers' associations to discuss joint planning and financial assistance to aid in the preparation of the system. Deputy reeve Ed Pergolas and councillor Dave Stevens opposed the motion objecting the use of municipal funds to finance the program. Reeve Lyle

McKnight broke the deadlock and the motion was carried.

Kitty Wells is coming

Country and western music singer Kitty Wells will be entertaining this weekend in Minden. The world famous performer will be appearing Friday evening at the community arena.

According to the organization promoting her visit to the community, Rockland Talent and Management, Kitty Wells and her husband John, took a drive through the Highlands after appearing in Lindsay in 1983. At that time they remarked on how much the area reminded them of the hills of Tennessee. The couple were so impressed with the scenery, according to the promoter, that they commented they would like to return and do a show in the area.

That hope will come true this Friday when Kitty Wells, her husband John Wright and their comedian son Bobby Wright appear on stage with their band, the Tennessee Mountain Boys.

Tickets for the show are $10 in advance and $12 at the door.

Kitty Wells, the queen of country music.

Grandma's Kitchen

Did you ever
In the golden days of Summer,
On a Saturday morning
Wander into your Grandmother's kitchen
And been struck with the wondrous aroma
Of cinnamon for cinnamon buns, sticky buns, cakes and pies?
And the fragrance of nutmeg
From which such succulent delights are made.
Peach and apple, pear and plum
All jewels enough to strike one dumb -
And then, if this was not enough
There were colours of a different stuff.
Tomatoes, onions, cucumbers, peas and beans
Of all shapes and hues and sheens,
Waiting for Grandmother's touch
Her creations of chutney, jellies, jams and such.
While she measured and stirred and boiled
You stood transfixed at how she toiled,
But she loved it -
And if you were very, very good
You'd get a sticky bun as your reward.
I loved those days at Grandma's house
And often think back when
And still dwell on that ecstasy of sight and smell
When I was nine or ten.

Taking part in the annual Kinmount Fall Fair parade was Harvey McIntosh and his team of Belgian horses from Minden.

Chemical spraying offers quick quackgrass control

Harvest time lets you see how effective your quackgrass control program is working. Fall is a good time to control quackgrass with herbicides. This weed grows well in cool and moist weather. Quackgrass leaves will continue to grow until there are nighttime low temperatures of -4 to -5 degrees C.

There are two chemicals for fall control of quackgrass. Fall application of Roundup will give excellent control at 2.5 kg./hectare, to be followed by 2.5 kg./hectare plus oil in the spring will also give good control.

A recent change in the Roundup label allows a 2.5 l./ha. rate of product in 50-100 l./ha of water. This treatment is recommended for quackgrass control in annual cropping systems. In established hayfields and pastures, 5.0 l./ha. is recommended for control. Quackgrass must be at least 8" tall with 3 to 4 given leaves per stem when sprayed.

If using atrazine for quackgrass control, you are limited to growing corn or triazine resistant canola for the following two years, but if this is in your plans atrazine gives a less expensive method of control.

With atrazine, two applications are required, one in the fall and one in the spring. The first application of 2.5 kg./ha. should be sprayed on actively growing quackgrass 1-3 weeks prior to fall plowing. The second application of 2.5 kg./ha. is made post-emergent with oil in the spring. This method should give good control of the quackgrass.

By fall application of roundup or atrazine, you will have a good start on the control of quackgrass for next year.

Wild carrot

Wild Carrot or Queen Anne's Lace, is a biennial weed that has become a major problem in hay and pasture fields. As a biennial, the plant does not flower until the second year of growth.

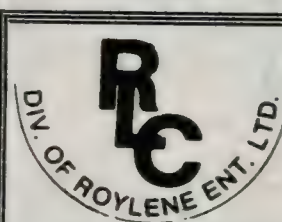

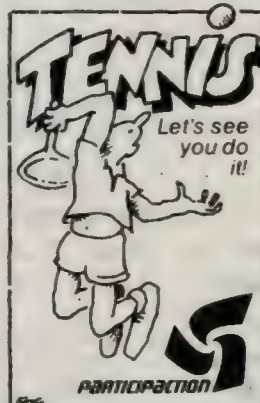

Wild carrot usually appears in old pasture fields, along roadsides and occasionally in hay fields. There are several sprays that will kill or control it, the best is a mixture of 2,4-D and Dicamba. If wild carrot is present in a field of trefoil, clover or alfalfa, you cannot spray without also killing the legumes. If only grasses are present, then this spray mixture would be suitable.

Late summer is the best time to spray. If spraying is not a suitable method of control, then you have to clip. By clipping you eliminate the flowers and as wild carrot only reproduces by seed, over several years you should eliminate it from the field.

Wild carrot is actually a very poor competitor with other plants, thus by using a high fertility program, you will be able to crowd the carrot out with desirable grasses and legumes. This approach will also allow you to increase the stocking rate of your pastures.

In summary, spraying, clipping and high fertilization will allow you to reduce the problem of wild carrot in hay and pasture fields.

SPECIAL OCCASION PERMIT

senior league

by Bert Harrison

Dear readers: It is Friday afternoon the 23rd day of August and Grace Coburn and Norma Barron have come for the sing-song. We welcome Doris Vaughan back from hospital where surgery she did undergo, she should be feeling better we all hope so.

Saturday our son Roger and wife Debra came and stayed with me to dine. Teddy Carr had a friend from Toronto come and dine with him too. Our deepest sympathy from all here we would like to convey to the family & relatives of Russell Robertson who has just passed away.

Our son Nelson and wife Marie too came and took me out to dinner which was a nice thing to do.

Congratulations and best wishes to Edna Cowan we would like to say whose birthday is on this 25th August day. Lilly Hogg had company too, which was just fine, two friends from Toronto came and stayed with her to dine.

Quite a lot of activity this weekend here at Hyland Crest. Some of the residents had special guests. We see Bill Johnson around here about, come to look after his mother and maybe wheel her out. Milly Wood had company, so did many others come to visit their dear mothers.

A real nice service in the chapel Sunday night, Rev. Burgess took his message from Psalms 9, always something that is really fine.

Here is some more news. Monday Edna Cowan went down and had dinner with her brother and his wife, Bob and Bertha Hughes.

We have a new waitress in the dining room, Susan Kernohan is really doing fine.

Tuesday morning Rev. John James of Haliburton United Church came down to us, brought us a very interesting message. He said that everything should be fine, if we put our trust in God and live one day at a time.

Watched a movie Tuesday afternoon which was really nice and the name of the movie was "Friends For Life". Tuesday night here at Hyland Crest Fred Ballard came again, fine organ music he does play and gives us of his best.

Well readers, how the time does fly. To all the holidayers we must say goodbye. Mark Schell, our head cook, is back from a week's holiday. If you can call cutting wood a holiday, by the way.

Wednesday we didn't have any crafts. There were no volunteers. We watched a movie, one of the best we've seen in years.

Carl Dugan tells me, and I'm sure he wouldn't fib to please, he said for his garden he picked 66 6 quart baskets of peas.

The Baptist ladies from Kinmount came over from Kinmount this Thursday, not only brought and served a lovely lunch, fine music they did play. We also had a birthday party for those who had birthdays in the month of August. We had a lovely birthday cake, the kind our mothers used to make. Thank you all for coming and treating us so fine, we'll be glad to have you come back to us most any time.

Our youthful Bingo players came to call the bingo numbers again Thursday night. They seem to know just what to do and do the job just right.

Paul and Melissa Northey who were married June 1, 1985 in The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints in Independence, Missouri. Paul is a former resident of Minden and the son of Les and Audrey Northey. The couple now reside in Independence, Missouri.
